【Course Objectives and Focus: 授業の到達目標及びテーマ】  Japanese literature, like English literature, has a long history and contains works in a wide variety of genres. Japanese literature, as the prolific writer and translator Donald Keene wrote, “includes some of the world’s longest novels and shortest poems, plays which are miracles of muted suggested and others filled with the most extravagant bombast. It is, in short, a rich literature which deserves better understanding.” It is the object of this course to deliver that. In addition to material indicated in the Content section below, students will be encouraged to read complete works of their own choosing.
【Course Summary: 授業の概要】  This year-long course will attempt to cover 1000 years of Japanese literature, with the first semester focusing on a representative anthology of works—including poetry, novels, plays, diaries, and so on—from Japan’s ancient period (pre-Heian, i.e. up to 794AD) and on to the late Tokugawa or Edo Period (1600-1868).
【 Preparatory Work: 準備学習等についての具体的な指示】  Students are expected to keep up with weekly reading assignments, a schedule of which will be provided at the beginning of the course. Participation in class discussions is a must and will be factored in to the final grade.
