Semester 学期	SPRING 2027	Course Level 履修年次	N/A	Credits 単位	5	hrs/wks 時間数/週	10
【Course Objectives: 授業の到達目標】
Upon successful completion of this course, students will be able to: - Express their thoughts and opinions in conversations and presentations using foundational grammar and vocabulary. - Interact with Japanese speakers using natural expressions and culturally appropriate manners. - Discuss familiar news and daily life topics. - Demonstrate elementary to lower-intermediate language proficiency and apply these skills to effective oral communication.
【Course Summary: 授業の概要】
This course utilizes the "Genki" series as the primary textbook for introducing and establishing grammatical structures. While the course introduces grammatical structures, its primary goal is to develop practical oral communication skills. The course is designed to facilitate the transition from grammatical knowledge to active, fluent use. To achieve this, each class incorporates diverse activities, including speaking exercises using newly learned grammar and vocabulary, conducting surveys with Japanese students, engaging in discussions on familiar topics, and delivering presentations. Through these activities, students will bridge the gap between understanding grammar and interacting effectively in Japanese.
【Study Required outside Class (Preparation etc): 事前・事後学習】
Students are expected to read and review the grammar explanations in the textbook for each unit and complete all assigned homework before class. Periodic vocabulary and grammar quizzes will be administered. Consistent daily study is essential to succeed in this course.
